

WHO ARE PROCUREMENT'S MOST INFLUENTIAL THINKERS? – PROCUREMENT NEWS

Procurious News | by Procurious HQ on 31/03/2015 04:55 | 0 comments

We've just announced the world's first digitally-led event for procurement and supply chain professionals. Missed it? You can get up to speed with all of the details here.

During this one-of-a-kind event we'll be talking and exploring Big Ideas around three core topics – namely, risk, people and technology.

We're bringing together some of the smartest Procurement thought leaders for a packed day full of interviews, debates and panel sessions. Don't worry, we'll be capturing all of the day's events on video so you'll be able to see how all the discussions unfold.

Sigi Osagie – Author

Sigi Osagie is a leading expert on effectiveness in Procurement & Supply Chain Management. He helps organisations and individuals achieve enhanced performance growth to accomplish their business and career goals. Sigi has extensive leadership experience across most Operations and Supply Chain areas, and previously held senior executive and board roles with several blue-chip multinationals and SMEs. He is the author of the highly-acclaimed book Procurement Mojo – Strengthening the Function and Raising Its Profile.

Click here to read the full article on the Procurious website.